FILM 180 - Film Culture (3 credit hours)

Course Description:

How the film industry developed and the impact the movies have had on global popular culture. Does not count toward the film studies major.

SAMPLE COURSE OVERVIEW

In roughly 120 years, motion pictures have rapidly evolved from silent depictions of everyday life to multi-million-dollar entertainment spectacles. We've all grown up watching movies; but aside from our likes and dislikes, how many of us have really tried to dissect their meaning? What are the techniques that go into making movies? How do these techniques convey meaning? What do movies say about our culture and, in turn, how does society influence the movies? By taking this course, you will learn how to find answers to these questions and gain a greater appreciation of the aesthetic and cultural importance of the motion picture art form.

ITEMIZED LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of Film 180, students will be able to:

1. Identify and describe the formal techniques through which media create meaning (e.g., cinematography, editing, narrative, sound)
2. Analyze how these techniques are used in examples of specific film forms to produce particular meanings and effects
3. Identify and discuss the role of the director, art director, cinematographer, editor, writer, sound designer, and composer
4. Discuss the impact specific films have had on popular culture
5. Synthesize analyses and construct compelling interpretive arguments
6. Present ideas in writing through clear and well-supported, thesis-driven papers.
