Criteria for Tenure and/or Promotion
Palmetto College Campuses

Each applicant for tenure and/or promotion should address the following criteria, with documentation.

1. Effectiveness as a Teacher or Librarian
2. Scholarship
3. Service

Criteria for Tenure and Promotion

Relative to the central mission of the Palmetto College Campuses, effectiveness as a teacher and/or librarian is of primary consideration for tenure and promotion decisions. Scholarship and Service are important as individual categories and increase in importance as they are considered together, especially elements of categories used to document scholarship as defined and described in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below.

1. Effectiveness as a Teacher and/or Librarian
2. Scholarship
3. Service

Criteria for Faculty Rank sought

(insert from current PCCFM, Criteria for Tenure and Promotion)

To be eligible for the rank of Associate Professor, a faculty member must have a record of effective teaching and scholarship (see Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below). The candidate must possess strong potential for further professional development. It is normally expected that the faculty member hold the terminal degree in the appropriate field and will have a minimum of four years of full-time faculty experience, three of which shall be at the Assistant Professor level.

Criteria for Effective or Highly Effective Teaching, depending on rank being sought

insert from current PCCFM, Criteria for Tenure and Promotion)

Effective teaching is justified using the criteria outlined in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below. The faculty member seeking to establish a record of effective teaching should provide a narrative description outlining his or her case. The faculty member's tenure and promotion file must contain documentation sufficient to convince local and regional campuses tenure and promotion committees that the criteria for effective teaching have been satisfied.

Scholarship

Scholarship should be documented by activities clearly identified as scholarly relative to the definition, description and checklist located in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below. Activities submitted to fulfill this category of the qualifications for tenure and promotion should be appropriate to the individual and of demonstrable value to the local community, campus, or general educational community. Each activity should be judged meritorious in proportion to the degree it matches the categories of scholarship and is consistent with the checklist provided in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below.

Since pertinence of scholarship activities is influenced by the expertise and interests of the candidate, mission and needs of the local campus, and availability of support (all of which change over time), the candidate is obligated to justify the nature, extent and value of his or her scholarship. This justification should be in the form of a listing and narrative description of activities. The description should explain scholarly aspects and present a case for the importance of each activity. The candidate's tenure and promotion file must contain documentation supporting both the fact and value of activities referenced in the narrative.

Criteria for Effective or Highly Effective Scholarship, depending on rank being sought
(insert from current PCCFM, Criteria for Tenure and Promotion)

To meet the qualification of effective, a faculty member must demonstrate an ongoing interest and effort to continue learning on a formal and/or non-formal basis. The faculty member must present evidence of the outcomes of her or his scholarship, if not publication of research or creative/artistic work, then evidence of activities other than classroom teaching, associated with the development, dissemination or application of knowledge. These activities should exhibit high concordance with the mission of the local campus and with the aspects of scholarship established by the checklist for determining scholarship (Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below). In total effect the faculty member should be viewed by peers on the local and regional campuses tenure and promotion committees as an individual actively and continuously engaged in the pursuit, application, and dissemination of knowledge.

In its mission statement, the University recognizes service as an important function of a university professor. This is particularly true on the Palmetto College Campuses. Service is outreach that faculty members provide to the campus, University, or the greater community. Service may include, but is not necessarily limited to, activities in four categories: service to the community, service to the local campus, service to the Palmetto College campuses/greater University, and service to the profession.

In the four categories of service identified above, activities may or may not be predicated on education and professional experience. It is the responsibility of the individual to demonstrate how the activity listed enhances the relationship between the University and the community. A guide for listing the activities for each of these categories can be found in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion below.

Evidence of Effective Teaching

Please refer to the section on Teaching Effectiveness in Guidelines for Documentation of Standards for Tenure and Promotion (current PCCFM, page 32) and address each of the criteria below. Included in the documentation submitted here must be a numerical summary of student evaluations. The candidate may include other forms of evidence of teaching effectiveness such as peer evaluations. All such evidence shall be organized in reverse chronological order. Allow extra pages as necessary.

Course design:

Effective teaching involves the development of clear course goals which must be consistent with both the missions of the campus and the role of the course in the curriculum. Effective instructors clearly connect stated goals of the course to the assessment of student learning.
