Blueprint for Academic Excellence School of Law AY2022-2023

Introduction

Since 1867, the School of Law has been a leader for the state and nation, producing outstanding lawyers, leaders, and public servants. Today we are committed to continuing this legacy. Unlike the past, however, today presents very different and formidable challenges in producing lawyer leaders that serve the public. We must attract and retain leading scholars, effective teachers, and promising students; we must diversify the interests that our faculty, staff, and students represent; we must aggressively place our students in top government and private-law jobs; we must offer initiatives to our students that challenge them to think smarter, work harder, and look broader, yet also train them for a holistically fulfilling life in law. This is our pursuit. Yet as a practical matter, many of these goals depend on funding. So, we have taken steps to improve our financial situation, having recently sought considerable funding from the legislature. As our efforts yield fruit, we will continue to improve on our educational, scholarly, and service achievements. We will strengthen our reputation and increase our ranking, ultimately producing outstanding lawyer leaders.

Instructional Modalities

Innovations and changes to Instructional Modalities in unit's programmatic and course offerings that were implemented during the Academic Year.

In Fall 2021, the Law School was back to in-person classes, but the modern Law School building's audiovisual infrastructure enables law faculty to utilize technology in a number of ways inside and outside of the classroom. Technologies and platforms used by the law school include:

- Blackboard LMS - classroom management, assignments, quizzing, surveying, assessments, course content, and curriculum resources.
- Blackboard Collaborate - used in distance education classroom/online/Hyflex environments, class tutoring, online office hours, polling for assessments, and used in webinars, such as the School of Law's LegalTech Seminar Series.
- Zoom - used for distance education classroom/online/Hyflex environments, polling/assessments, open office hours and conference webinars.
- Microsoft Live Events - Used for Town Hall Meetings.
- Microsoft Teams - Virtual Open Office hours for faculty, one-on-one meetings with students, Clinic meetings.
- TWEN LMS - classroom management, assignments, quizzing, surveying, polling, assessments and advanced legal content, course content, and curriculum resources.
- Video editing services and software - faculty utilize software such as Panopto, Camtasia, and other tools in order to seamlessly incorporate video content in class lectures and material.

- Classroom Technologies include classroom computers, document cameras, Apple TV (screen sharing), zoom digital cameras, classroom ceiling and instructor handheld/lapel microphones for recording, videoconferencing, and amplification purposes.
- Panopto - our video capture platform which aids in a number of Law School functions including:
 - Lecture and Event video capture, including automatic integration with Zoom Cloud recordings and integration with Blackboard for classroom recordings.
 - Video embedded quizzes for alternate delivery CLE seminars. Student and Faculty timestamped enabled feedback for class assignments.
 - Student assignment submittal via a dropbox feature.
 - Ability to edit videos.
- iClicker - Platform and devices that enable anonymous extemporaneous polling.
- Microsoft Forms - Web-based platform for polls, quizzes, surveys, and signup forms.
- Google Docs - Several classes collaborate using Google Docs documents.
- OneDrive - used for sharing files between faculty and students

Procetas LegalTech Assessments – Used by our entire first year “Intro to Legal Profession Class” and our upper-level “Technology and Practice of Law” Class for technology proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite applications such as Word, Excel and PowerPoint, as well as Adobe Acrobat/PDF proficiency.

Academic Programs that were newly launched during the Academic Year; those that received required approvals but which had not yet enrolled students are not included.

The Masters in Health System Law and the Certificate in Health Law Compliance received CHE final approval in March 2020. Enrollment is expected to begin in January of 2023 if legislative funding is forthcoming.

Academic Initiatives

Experiential Learning For Undergraduates

Initiatives, improvements, challenges, and progress with Experiential Learning at the Undergraduate level.

The School of Law has four types of experiential offerings, two of which are for academic credit and two of which are not. The academic credit offerings are Clinical Legal Education and Externships, which are included as part of the Clinics. In addition to these programs, the 2020-2021 course offerings included 63 experiential courses.

The Law School Clinic provides students with the opportunity to practice law and represent actual clients under the South Carolina Supreme Court Student Practice Rule. With the beginning of the Veterans Legal Clinic in Fall 2018, we now offer eight clinical courses in the following areas: Criminal Practice, Education Rights, Juvenile Justice, Nonprofit Organizations, Environmental Law, Domestic Violence, Carolina Health Advocacy Medicolegal Partnership (CHAMPS), and Veterans Law. All Clinics are six credit, one-semester courses.

The Externship Program has grown steadily since 2011 and includes placement opportunities in the following six areas: Administrative Law, Children's Law, Judicial, Criminal Law, Legislative, and In-House Counsel. Students are placed in positions with judges, lawyers in not-for-profit legal service providers, government agencies, and corporate legal departments. The fall and spring externships are two credit courses, while summer externships are four credits.

Experiential Learning For Graduate Students

Initiatives, improvements, challenges, and progress with Experiential Learning at the Graduate or Professional level.

All School of Law programs are graduate level study.

Affordability

Assessment of affordability and efforts to address affordability.

The School of Law tuition and fees had been among the highest for public law schools in the Southeast. Legislative funding allowed the School to reduce resident tuition by $5,000 in AY2019 and by $750 in AY2021. Resident tuition is now $800 below UNC's resident tuition and about $3,800 higher than UGA.

Our faculty and staff size are generally smaller than those of other schools of similar student population. We are planning to reduce class size by five students in AY23; therefore, we are focusing our efforts on finding non-JD sources of revenue.

We are focusing private philanthropy efforts on scholarship creation and endowed professorships and chairs. Recent experience shows that admitted applicants receive financial offers from other more highly ranked schools that are as much as $10-15,000 per year below our net cost. Additional professorship funding will allow the School to attract and retain talented faculty.

Reputation Enhancement

Contributions and achievements that enhance the reputation of UofSC Columbia regionally

and nationally.

In the Fall of 2020, the School of Law implemented, for the first time, a process for collecting, streamlining, and disseminating data and information to law school representatives and US News and World Report influencers across the country. We plan to share the accomplishments of the Law School with this important group on a regular basis. The US News and World Report rankings should be released the end of March 2022.

In 2021, the total number of law review articles published by South Carolina School of Law faculty was 36, of which 12 were in top-50 placements, two in top-ten placements, and six were in top-5 specialty journal placements. The law faculty published three books.

Our Law School faculty are visiting faculty, speakers, and presenters at other prestigious law schools. We received a $1 million dollar gift in December 2020, which, in addition to endowing a distinguished professorship, will attract visiting legal scholars to teach short courses and give community talks at the Law School. These scholars will return to their institutions and communities with a greater appreciation for the strength of the School.

The Law School's continuing relationship with the American Bar Association ("ABA") through our students' editing of the ABA Real Property Trusts and Estate Law Journal provides national reputation and has resulted in the School hosting a major, national ABA estate planning conference in the past and will be hosting post-Covid again.

The new building has been used to host major academic conferences and other conferences including:

1. Hubbard Conference on Law and Education was held at the Law School in February 2022. This conference was co-sponsored by the American Bar Foundation, which founded and raised over $350,000 for this bi-annual conference. Three schools, U of SC, Stanford and Northwestern, will share hosting responsibilities on a bi-annual basis.

2. Judge Michelle Childs hosted a national conference with the ABA on the 19th Amendment at the law school in 2021.

Challenges

Challenges and resource needs anticipated for the current and upcoming Academic Years, not noted elsewhere in this report and/or those which merit additional attention.

The Law School's number one challenge is limited scholarship funds. Although we recently received a new $1.2 million gift from the estate of beloved faculty member, Howard Stravitz, to endow two Dean's Scholars, it is our hope to have a total of twelve Dean's Scholars at any given time at the law school.

Funding to attract and retain nationally recognized faculty is also a challenge. We are grateful to the Provost for the funding for the diversity faculty hire, which will understand to be a permanent fund transfer. We will continue to face challenges in this area.

Additional challenges include affordability and diversity both in regard to faculty hiring and the student body.

Finally, the lack of regular merit pay increases is a challenge to faculty and staff morale.

Faculty Information

Research and Scholarly Activity

Please refer to Appendix 3, which provides detailed information from the Office of the Vice President for Research, department of Information Technology and Data Management, including:

- 1) The total number and amount of externally sponsored research proposal submissions by funding source for the appropriate Fiscal Year.*
- 2) Summary of externally sponsored research awards by funding source for the appropriate Fiscal Year. Total extramural funding processed through Sponsored Awards Management (SAM) in the Fiscal Year, and federal extramural funding processed through SAM in the Fiscal Year. (Available at: <http://sam.research.sc.edu/awards.html>) Amount of sponsored research funding per faculty member for the appropriate fiscal year (by rank, type of funding; e.g., federal, state, etc., and by department if applicable).*
- 3) Number of patents, disclosures, and licensing agreements for three most recent Fiscal Years.*

2021 was a year of productive scholarship. A few highlights include Professor Claire Raj's article on disability rights, placed in the Michigan Law Review. Professor Wadie Said published an article on terrorism and human rights in the UCLA Law Review. Professor Joseph Seiner published a book, The Virtual Workplace, with Cambridge University Press. Professor Shelley Welton published an article with the California Law Review on governance of the energy grid. No standard measure of faculty research productivity exists in the field of law. We believe a fair measure of outstanding scholarship is publication of articles in top-50 law reviews or top-5 specialty journals and publication of books. Law review prestige is measured by the Washington & Lee ranking of law reviews. In 2021, the total number of law review articles published by South Carolina faculty was 36, of which 12 were in top-50 placements and six were in top-5 specialty journal placements. The law faculty published three books. No uniform comparative data with other schools is available, but we have gathered comparable data from information on the websites of two other law schools. By comparison, University of Kentucky (US News ranked #81) reports 13 articles, two top-50, zero top-5 specialty, and three books in 2021. University of Missouri Kansas City (US News ranked #111) reports 12 articles, zero top-50, one top-5 specialty, and four books in 2021.

Faculty Development

Efforts at Faculty Development, including investments, activities, incentives, objectives, and outcomes.

Efforts at Faculty Development, including investments, activities, incentives, objectives, and outcomes

The Associate Dean for Faculty Development consults with faculty regarding scholarly productivity to ensure that resources support the publication process. He ensures that junior faculty are effectively mentored regarding scholarship development.

The AD also arranges work-in-progress presentations by faculty both from within the law school and from other schools. He oversees accountability for research funding and coordinates with the other associate dean to determine sabbatical leaves.

Faculty Information

The Law Library's Assistant Director for Faculty Services is a professional librarian who supports faculty research by locating necessary source material, assisting with research strategy, and managing discrete research project assistance using a team of six student research assistants. She also provides current awareness services for the law faculty and gives presentations to the law faculty on the various services and resources available to them through the law library and the university's main library. Teaching resources continue to be adjusted to facilitate more research productivity and greater engagement of faculty in the work of the law school outside of class.

Two research faculty were selected for vacant endowed chairs (one previously held another chair).

Teaching

Faculty to Student Ratio

The following data was provided by UofSC's Office of Institutional Research, Assessment, and Analytics.

The formula used to compute the ratio uses data from Faculty Population by Track and Title and Student Enrollment by Time Basis, as follows:

Analysis of Ratio

Analysis of the ratio, agreement with the data, and plans for the future to impact this ratio.

The student to faculty ratio is appropriate for modern law study in a law school of our size. Some schools have further improved the ratio by significantly reducing their student population without diminishing their faculty size, but this option is neither fiscally practical nor qualitatively necessary for our school. Students ordinarily have a small (18 students) section of legal writing, research, and analysis in the first year and opportunities for multiple smaller enrollment classes in the third year. Clinics require a 10/1 or lower ratio.

Student Recruiting and Retention

Student Recruitment

Efforts, including specific actions, to recruit students into College/School programs.

Our primary goal remains to increase both the quality and quantity of the applicant pool for admission and improve selectivity and yield rates of applicants while raising the medians for LSAT and UGPA. This consistent goal supports our aspiration to be a law school of choice, attracting excellent students from South Carolina, other states, and the world. The school strives to increase the participation of students of color in our admissions program – as prospects, applicants, and admitted candidates. Residents of South Carolina remain a small (less than 2%) of the national pool of law school candidates. Our student recruitment efforts encourage all South Carolina residents to apply for admission and focus on enrollment of high ability and diverse South Carolina admitted candidates. Admitted candidates tend to make enrollment decisions considering these factors: cost, reputation, outcomes [employment, graduation, and bar passage], and location. Our marketing efforts illustrate why U of SC Law should be a school of choice because of our assets and measurable outcomes in these areas, as well as the strength of our academic and co-curricular programs.

Efforts/Achievements

Continuous refinement of goals for specific enrollment outcomes compared to comparable outcomes of our competitor, peer, and aspirant law schools, as communicated in national law rankings.

Targeted invitations to apply for admission to USC, with the goal of maintaining an applicant pool that consistently exceeds the percentage increase in size in the national law school applicant pool.

Refined our targeted messages for high-ability South Carolina applicants inviting them to apply for Fall 2021. Reviewed CRS messages to reflect sensitivity to changing conditions amidst the pandemic and to encourage South Carolina residents to stay closer to home.

Adjusted the academic and geographic criteria used to select candidates to invite to apply for admission to reflect ongoing changes in applicant pool and new LSAT test dates. Continued to expand outside of these criteria to specifically invite diverse candidates and those who elected not to disclose their ethnicity and gender.

Continue to refine and develop analytic tools to guide our admissions decisions to reach our academic profile, diversity, and selectivity goals.

Transition to LSAC's Unite database management system for processing applications for admission.

Research, compare capabilities and cost, and interview law school users of Customer Relationship Management systems to enable the Admissions team to exponentially increase the personalization of our recruitment efforts while automating those efforts for enhanced productivity.

Increase the communication messaging that enhances the reputation of the law school in areas that influence admitted candidates to enroll, such as graduate job outcomes.

Transitioned our transactional communication with admitted candidates from primarily print to primarily electronic delivery.

Streamlined the phases of our enrollment commitment process.

Maintained a hybrid in-person and virtual recruitment environment in response to prevailing COVID recovery conditions. Maintained a procedure for hosting safe, individualized in-person tours, to remain in compliance with the School of Law's visitor policy.

Facilitated electronic connections between admitted candidates and faculty in their area of interest to provide information and encourage their enrollment.

Offered virtual opportunities for candidates at any phase of the admissions cycle, including candidates denied admission, to have a one-on-one information session with an admissions officer.

Enhanced Law Ambassador outreach efforts to ensure that each admitted candidate has a currently enrolled student as a resource.

Delivered virtual Admitted Student Day programs in Spring 2021 and Winter 2022.

We have admitted candidates with GRE scores for a limited number of seats on an experimental basis since 2019. We are now analyzing data to evaluate the academic accomplishments of this group of students to evaluate the impact on admission, student, retention, graduation, and bar passage.

Strengthened outreach to prelaw advisors and prelaw organizations, including USC Honors College and HBCUs. We are tracking applications for each targeted HBCU.

Added an optional diversity statement as a component of the application process, providing useful information to the Admissions Committee.

Refined the Grad Grants program to recruit outstanding students by matching them with research assistantships with faculty in their selected field.

Updated and maintained the admitted student communication plan to keep our admitted candidate audience interested and engaged with the UofSC Law community. This plan was sent from January through early May, and the content was altered to fit the changing conditions of the pandemic.

Completed the first year of a pilot program to consider applicants for admission whose bachelor's degree is, or will be from, a campus of the University of South Carolina. The UofSC Now2JD program enables these candidates to apply with either an ACT or SAT score, if they have met the cumulative undergraduate degree requirement of 3.60 or higher as reported by the Law School Admission Council. Two candidates were admitted and enrolled through this new initiative.

Student Recruiting and Retention

Hosted a series of virtual recruitment events in partnership with University of North Carolina School of Law and William & Mary Law School called Dive In! to Law School (July - September 2021). Collaborated with other SEC law schools to host an SEC Media Days style virtual program in Spring 2021. Our Admissions Marketing Coordinator was on the leadership team for this event.

Student Retention

Efforts at retaining current students in College/School programs.

Retention has not been a significant issue for the School of Law. We offer significant opportunities for 1Ls to receive voluntary group and individualized tutoring throughout the first year. At the end of each semester, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs meets with every student on academic probation and discusses a plan for academic improvement. These students also meet regularly throughout the probation semester with the Director of Academic Success and Bar Preparation, who provides guidance on a variety of academic success strategies, including managing stress, motivation and focus, test-taking strategies, and time management.

Development, Fundraising and Gifts

Substantial development initiatives and outcomes, including Fundraising and Gifts.

Scholarship support continues to be the highest priority for the School of Law.

Alumni Engagement & Fundraising

Despite the School of Law not having a dedicated development team nor Senior Director of Development until October 2021, the School has raised $4,019,465 through March 6 FY2022. Last year at this time, the School of Law had raised $1,895,831 and the year prior it raised $1,100,536.

The School sent out multiple mail and e-solicitations for the Law Carolina Fund and Law Scholarship Fund. The e-solicitations were sent through Blackbaud, which allowed us to follow up with alumni who did not open the original e-appeal. The December appeals open rate averaged 28.2% and click rate 2.3%. The School of Law raised $74,229 in annual donations (online, call-in, mail-in and ACH) between December 14th (first appeal) and end of the calendar year.

As we plan for the spring, we will solicit law alumni for Give 4 Garnet, a university-wide giving day initiative. We will fundraise for the Law School Scholarship Fund and expect to raise $20,000 based on previous giving day results and forecasting.

Equity and Diversity Plan

Improve Under-Represented Minority (URM) Student Enrollment

The Office of Admissions (Admissions) invited approximately 3,000 prospects to apply for admission to the law school and provided an application fee waiver to remove the barrier of cost for applicants in need. Because of COVID-19, in-person student recruitment events nationwide shifted to virtual platforms. Admissions participated in or hosted 56 group events and marketed our participation to over 4,000 prospects. Each event was marketed broadly to diverse prospects. Several programs were hosted by HBCUs or by consortia designed to share information and encourage diverse candidates to apply to the law schools. These events included:

1. 3rd annual Carolina HBCU Career Talent Showcase
2. Florida A&M University Law Day (in person)
3. AUCC Grad and Professional School Fair (virtual)
4. Claflin University Graduate and Professional School Fair (virtual)
5. Benedict College Admissions Presentation - private (virtual) visit
6. Morris College Event

Admissions served on the planning group for the first Southern Association of Pre-Law Advisors (SAPLA) Law Diversity Symposium held in February 2021.

The Vice Dean for Admissions, the Associate Dean for DEI, and the Dean of the Law School participated in the inaugural Diversity Summit hosted by the Charleston School of Law in July 2021. The Summit convened pre-law advisors, lawyers, members of the South Carolina Bar, representatives from UofSC Law, and representatives from Charleston School of Law to strategize ways to diversify the legal profession in South Carolina.

The Office of the Provost and the Educational Foundation collaborated in providing scholarship funding for graduates of HBCUs. Two students were awarded these scholarships in AY22.

For the Fall 2021 entering class, Admissions added an optional diversity statement to the application process for admission, providing useful information to the Admissions Committee for evaluation of individual contributions to the diversity of the law school. Admissions added items to the application for admission to encourage applicants to self-identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, or other gender identity and to identify their preferred pronouns.

The Associate Dean for DEI and the Vice Dean for Admissions, Career & Professional Development, and Student Affairs served on the steering committee and presented at the South Carolina Bar Association's Pre-Law Advising Workshop in November 2021.

The Vice Dean for Admissions, Career & Professional Development, and Student Affairs joined the Board of Directors of the Southern Association of Pre-Law Advisors (SAPLA) for a two-year term in December 2021. This group creates events and services to support regional pre-law advisors.

Admissions and DEI collaborated with the Black Law Student Association to create a model for a diversity conference targeting students at HBCUs in South Carolina.

The law school, through its webpage, social media outlets, Admissions contacts, and other professional collaborative channels, is actively promoting the Marshall-Motley Scholars Program, announced in January 2021 as an initiative of the NAACP-Legal Defense Fund to “produce a highly skilled cadre of racial justice attorneys committed to working in the Southern region of the United States.” In January 2022, Admissions and DEI hosted USC’s Pre-Law Advisor and UofSC undergraduate students for a presentation by the MMSP recruitment team at the law school. The Admissions Office has directly promoted the opportunity to admitted candidates.

Admissions participated in the Mecklenburg County, North Carolina’s 15th Annual Increasing Diversity in the Legal Profession Virtual Conference for college and high school students in March 2022.

This spring, the Law School and the Office of Pre-Professional and Graduate Advising will host a mock class and Q&A session for undergraduates from eight schools, including several HBCUs.

Improve The Number Of Full-Time URM Faculty Across Academic Units

The Law School continues to recruit URM faculty for both adjunct and full-time positions. The Associate Dean for Academic Affairs works to ensure that all adjunct vacancies are published in ways likely to reach URM lawyers and reaches out to recruit potential candidates. The efforts are resulting in diversification as positions become available and are filled.

In August 2021, the Associate Dean for DEI created a UofSC Law Search Committee Handbook to aid the Faculty Selection Committee in its work of recruiting diverse faculty candidates for the Law School.

When hiring, we seek to interview URM candidates and frequently extend offers to diverse candidates. These faculty, however, are heavily recruited by other schools as well, and we have struggled to hire African Americans in particular. In the 2021-2022 recruiting cycle, our Faculty Selection Committee identified and vetted fifty-four candidates for five potential full-time faculty hiring lines. Fourteen URM candidates received initial interviews. Nine candidates received offers, including two URM candidates. Three candidates accepted full-time offers, including one URM candidate. Those new faculty members will join us in Fall 2022. The Faculty Selection Committee is continuing to recruit and interview faculty candidates this Spring, including potential URM lateral candidates.

The Law School continues to work on alternative recruitment and retention strategies to enhance our ability to attract talented URM faculty. In Spring 2021, the Law Faculty approved the Edna Smith Primus Fellowship Program to provide aspiring scholars an opportunity to prepare for a career in law teaching. The Primus Program honors Edna Smith Primus, the first African-American woman to graduate from the University of South Carolina School of Law. The Primus Program embraces a commitment to diversity and inclusion in the legal profession and especially encourages applications from candidates of color and other underrepresented communities in the legal academy. Program participants will pursue a scholarly agenda of their choice and receive mentoring in both their teaching and scholarly work. The Law School is currently working to fund the Primus Program so that it can commence recruitment for the first named Fellows.

The Associate Dean for DEI is working with members of the Council for Academic Diversity Officers and with the University's Associate Vice President for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion on specific measures to support the University's strategic plan, specifically with regard to strategies for recruiting, hiring, and retaining URM Faculty.

Enhance Outcomes For URM Undergraduate and Graduate/Professional Students

In July 2021, the Associate Dean for DEI joined the Dean and the Director of Diversity Initiatives at Charleston School of Law to co-host an inaugural Diversity Summit for the State of South Carolina. The Summit brought together representatives from the State's two law schools, the South Carolina Bar Association, attorney practitioners, and pre-law advisors to discuss initiatives to recruit URM law school candidates and to equip them to succeed, especially with regard to career placement and advancement. Following the Summit, the Associate Dean for DEI was appointed to lead a working group assembled to evaluate the feasibility of a state-wide law pipeline consortium. As of March 2022, that working group has identified a home for the consortium, as well as a proposed structure for funding and governance. The working group plans to present its proposal to the South Carolina Bar Association House of Delegates and Board of Governors. In Summer 2022, UofSC Law will host the second annual Diversity Summit to measure progress in law pipeline and post-graduate initiatives from pre-law, law school, and practice-oriented stakeholders throughout South Carolina.

Beginning in Summer 2021, the Associate Dean for DEI, the Vice Dean for Admissions, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, and Directors of other programs in the Law School began working on a comprehensive professional identify formation program for UofSC Law students. The program will commence in Fall 2022 and will include specific programs and resources to equip URM students to succeed in law school and in post-graduate practice.

In Fall 2021, the Associate Dean for DEI joined the Black Law Students Association for a welcome seminar for incoming first-year law students. The panelists shared tips on finding community, establishing good study habits, and maintaining mental and physical wellness.

In Fall 2021, the Associate Dean for DEI spoke at a Pre-Law Advisor seminar hosted by the South Carolina Bar Association focusing on diversity in law school. The presentation focused on helping pre-law URM candidates find community and success in law school.

The Associate Dean for DEI and the Student Diversity & Inclusion Task Force continues to work to ensure that students do not fall behind due to food insecurity by collecting donations, organizing, and operating the Law School Pantry. This year, students managing the Pantry renamed it "Counselor's Corner" to help remove the stigma of food insecurity among law students. Counselor's Corner provides non-perishable food, personal hygiene items, used textbooks and study aids, and clothing to those in need in the law school community. Counselor's Corner continues to draw support (donated goods and funding) from law students, faculty, staff, and external entities.

Equity and Diversity Plan

In Spring 2022, students on the Diversity & Inclusion Task Force hosted a “Breads for Threads” event, through which students could “shop” for donated professional attire by donating items for Counselor’s Corner. The Associate Dean for DEI is working with Admissions to explore grant opportunities for a pipeline program aimed at attracting URM undergraduate students to law school and equipping them with the skills needed to succeed upon admission. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI hosted UofSC’s Pre-Law Advising for a Diversity in Law seminar in the Law School. The event brought together students and pre-law advisors from five undergraduate institutions in South Carolina and focused on law school success for URM students.

The Associate Dean for DEI is working with Admissions and current law students to plan a pre-law seminar for students enrolled at SC HBCUs. The seminar, planned for Fall 2022, is intended to serve as a workshop to assist pre-law students with the law school application process, with the goal of expanding the seminar in future years to include opportunities for networking with URM law students and alumni.

Improve Post-Graduate Outcomes For URM Undergraduate and Graduate/Professional Students

During the first semester of law school, a pass/fail course introduces new students to the variety of job possibilities that accompany a JD degree. This program is especially valuable to students who do not have a family background with experience in the legal profession, and it is accompanied by a formal mentoring program that matches students with diverse teams of lawyer and judge mentors. The law school participates in national and regional minority law consortia to provide URM students with a specific opportunity to interview with law firms, including the Southeastern Minority Job Fair. The Law School’s Career & Professional Development staff receives and promotes diversity/minority-related job postings and program notices from employers who share the Symplicity online career portal and continues to investigate opportunities to participate in job fairs sponsored by the Hispanic National Bar Association and regional affiliates of the Black Law Students Association. The Law School’s strong academic assistance program provides free, voluntary bar preparation assistance to students and to graduates who initially fail the bar exam. In fall 2020, at the urging of student groups, including URM student organizations, the law school began offering bar prep classes to prepare students for the bar exam. In Spring 2022, the Law School offered a new course for academic credit, Legal Analysis Workshop, to help prepare students for the Bar exam. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI, the Dean of the Law School, and the Director of Career & Professional Development created and co-taught a new course, Lawyers as Leaders, to equip students with leadership skills needed to be effective in law practice. The course features weekly presentations by a diverse and robust list of nationally and internationally recognized leaders and is especially beneficial for URM students, including first generation law students. In Spring 2022, the Student Diversity & Inclusion Task Force sponsored a “Breads for Threads” event to allow law students to exchange donations of canned goods and other pantry items for donated professional attire to outfit them for interviews and summer employment. The Associate Dean for DEI, a member of the South Carolina Bar, also serves on the Bar’s Diversity Committee. The law school is committed to leading DEI initiatives, both internally and collaboratively, that will improve the DEI culture of the legal profession. Additionally, the Dean, the faculty, and the staff of the law school connect with law firms and the local Bar to enhance the success of our graduates. In Fall 2021 and Spring 2022, the

Equity and Diversity Plan

Associate Dean for DEI worked with a group of attorneys on the South Carolina Bar's Diversity Committee to create a pilot Diverse Summer Law Clerk program to create summer job opportunities for diverse law students with participating law firms. In Spring 2022, the Law School's Office of Career & Professional Development proposed a similar program for judicial clerkships. Work on that proposal continues, and the Law School actively pursues ideas for ways to assist URM candidates in finding and securing employment opportunities.

Increase the engagement of students, faculty, staff, administrators in Equity and Inclusion

In Fall 2021, the Law School commenced an internal diversity audit to measure the cultural climate of the law school community. The audit coincided with other institutional assessments, both internal and external, that made the study timely, specifically, the Law School's Strategic Plan, the University's Strategic Plan, and the South Carolina Bar's all-member survey (commenced as part of its Strategic Diversity Plan). Under the leadership of the Associate Dean for DEI, the Law School retained an audit consultant and proceeded with the audit to establish a firm basis for implementing the Law School's strategic plan, maintaining its commitment to the University's broader strategic goals, and reinforcing its role as a partner in education and service to the South Carolina Bar and the State of South Carolina, more generally. Throughout the Fall 2021 semester, the audit consultant met with focus groups comprised of faculty, staff, students, and alumni. At the end of the Fall 2021 semester, the audit consultant conducted a workshop with faculty and staff to identify specific action items that would move the Law School forward in terms of diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. In Spring 2022, the Law School distributed an Executive Summary of the audit and notes from the faculty-staff workshop to all law students, staff, faculty, and members of the Law School's alumni councils. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI and the Dean of the Law School hosted a meeting with the alumni councils and a Town Hall for students, faculty, and staff to discuss the audit results. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI continued the work of implementing the feedback from the audit by hosting a workshop for student leaders. The next steps for implementation include the formation of working groups comprised of faculty, staff, students, and alumni who will collate suggestions produced in the workshops and in the Town Hall and identify specific action items to carry into AY 2022-2023 that will enhance the diversity, equity, and inclusiveness of the learning community.

The Faculty and Staff Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee continues to work on DEI initiatives in the Law School. This year's Committee created a clear mission statement and defined its role in shaping the DEI culture of the Law School. The Committee continues its work to enhance the law school's physical space to make it more welcoming and representative of our law school community and to ensure that art and other displays in the law school include accurate historical and biographical context. The Associate Dean for DEI and volunteers from the Committee worked to create a DEI calendar to share heritage and other commemorative events. The DEI calendar is shared with the law school's Communications team to enhance recognition of commemorative events through the law school's webpage and social media outlets. The Associate Dean for DEI and volunteers from the Committee worked to create a flyer to summarize reporting procedures for harassment and discrimination to ensure that members of the Law School Community could easily access reporting procedures. The Committee is also working on a land and labor acknowledgement for the Law School to honor the legacy and sacrifice of persons and property on which the Law School was built. In Fall 2021, the Law School's Office of DEI partnered with the Children's Law Concentration and the Faculty and Staff DEI Committee to co-sponsor a book tour event with Professor Kris Henning in celebration of her book, The Rage of Innocence: How America Criminalizes Black Youth. The event featured a talk by Professor Henning and a panel discussion regarding her work's impact on social justice reform in South Carolina. In Fall 2021, the Law School's Office of DEI partnered with the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs to host Attorney Stevie Tran's talk, "I'm Not a Boy Anymore: Understanding the Transgender Identity" as part of the OMSA's Alphabet Soup Professional Development Program. In Spring 2022, the Law School's Office of DEI partnered with the Children's Law Concentration, the Black Law Students Association, and Women in Law to co-sponsor a film screening of On These Grounds and a panel discussion associated with the film. Following the film events, the Law School's Office of DEI sponsored a Unity Luncheon for members of the Task Force, the Black Law Students Association, and Women in Law to celebrate with those groups the completion of successful and well-planned community-building events. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI recruited five speakers for a LegalTech seminar. The event featured Black law alumni and was moderated by a member of the Black Law Students Association. The LegalTech series is a technology and law CLE series open to all SC lawyers, as well as UofSC Law students, faculty, and staff. The Associate Dean for DEI continues to work with the Student Diversity & Inclusion Task Force to identify areas of interest and concern within the student body. The Task Force, which is comprised of representatives from the Student Bar Association and law school affinity groups, meets on a biweekly basis and partners with the Associate Dean for DEI to host speaker events and engagement opportunities for the law school community. To build community in the Law School, the Task Force has hosted three school-wide Coffee and Donut Breaks in AY 2021-2022, one featuring baked goods from a local Hispanic bakery in honor of Hispanic Heritage Month, one featuring baked goods from a Black-owned bakery in honor of Black History Month, and one celebrating the start of Women's History Month.

Improve The Sense Of Inclusion Amongst All University Community Members

As reflected in our stated mission, vision, and values, the law school is committed to "[c]ultivating – through our words and actions – a diverse, inclusive, and civil community where everyone is valued and supported." Our Associate Dean for DEI continues to work with the Faculty and Staff DEI Committee and the Student Diversity & Inclusion Task Force to identify inclusive aspects of our community that we can strengthen and aspects of our community that present new opportunities for enhancing the DEI culture of our school that extends to the entire University.

The Associate Dean for DEI works with other Academic Diversity Officers in the University to share programming ideas and invitations that foster inclusivity. In Spring 2022, the Associate Dean for DEI will attend the University's Showcase Luncheon, an annual admitted student day event that honors our newly admitted African American students.
