

WHY YOU SHOULD HIRE A MOORE SCHOOL STUDENT

Every undergraduate student at the Moore School completes a required career management course. This course guides students, step by step, through the search process. Behavioral interviewing instruction, resume development and culture/fit assessment are provided using Birkman Method results as a road map for each student to explore their competencies, cultural fit and career path. You will find our students prepared to engage with you at the highest level possible, enabling you to make better, quicker and more reliable hiring decisions.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

ACCOUNTING

Our accounting majors develop the ability to analyze and solve fiscal problems and are skilled in budget planning, tax accounting and auditing. High-level, experiential, hands-on opportunities hone professional and customer-facing skills, preparing students to add value in both public accounting and private sector roles from day one.

ECONOMICS

Economics majors at the Moore School develop many vital business skills including economic forecasting, market research, cost-effectiveness analysis and investment analysis. Many of these students double major, providing an even more substantive skill base, leading to careers in banking and finance, manufacturing, services, government and higher education.

FINANCE

Our finance major is deeply rooted in data analysis and risk assessment, providing a solid foundation that adds instant value to the employers who hire them. Employers seeking early career talent in corporate finance, banking, investments and beyond will find our finance students well prepared and ready to take on the challenges of the ever-changing realities of today's business environment.

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Ranked No. 1 in the nation for more than two decades, our international business major is truly second to none, providing students with a deep understanding of the inherent risks and opportunities involved in doing business globally. Students receive advanced language training and study abroad with one of our 60 elite academic partners, leading to first-hand knowledge of various cultures and business norms. All international business students double major in a functional area like finance, marketing or supply chain, leading to a deep-rooted skill set as well as a broad understanding of the world.

MANAGEMENT

Understanding organizational behavior and how organizations evolve or are changed is the foundation of our management curriculum, leading students to careers in human resources, strategic management and business communications. Real-world experience is offered through three strong academic centers: the Faber Center for Entrepreneurship, the Riegel & Emory Human Resources Center and the Center for Executive Succession.

MARKETING

Marketing students at the Moore School can choose a focus in marketing analytics, sales or product management, and all students participate in a deep dive into analytics starting their freshmen year. Students can gain hands-on experience through the Moore School's Center for Marketing Solutions and the Center for Sales Success. Through these centers, students engage with corporate partners on projects or sales simulations leading to cutting-edge, hands-on employability.

HOW TO ACCESS THIS TALENT:

OPERATIONS AND SUPPLY CHAIN

Our top-ranked operations and supply chain major allows students to develop competencies to systematically analyze and improve business processes and offers the country's only industry-certified Six Sigma Green Belt certification in academia. The program focuses on not just learning, but applying these skills through a capstone consulting project course in which student teams tackle a real-time project with a company or organization.

REAL ESTATE

Students who graduate with a real estate major are not only immediately eligible to sit for the South Carolina Real Estate Broker's Licensing Exam, they are also ready to begin careers in investment analysis, portfolio management and mortgage banking. Studying market analysis, investment fundamentals and corporate financial analysis, in addition to real estate analysis, allows them to bring a meaningful, big-picture mindset to their first job out of college — in the real estate industry and beyond.

recruit@moore.sc.edu
803-777-0149
Handshake:
app.joinhandshake.com/login

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INSURANCE

We are proud that our risk management and insurance major is the third largest in the country, providing employers with a critical mass of young career talent with analytical and qualitative decision making skills that lead to objective decisions in times of uncertainty. These students graduate to become underwriters, insurance brokers, investment analysts and risk managers, armed with a deep knowledge of corporate risk management, derivative securities and insurance operations, ready to help you mitigate risk on day one.

Office of Career
Management

Darla Moore School of Business